In the spring of 2008, the Northside community selected Kwanzaa Church's project, Sidewalks Saving Lives, as the first winner of the Great Ideas Exchange. In September, the project came to fruition with local artists and community members painting carefully designed HIV/AIDS prevention messages on sidewalk sites in ten locations around the Northside.

Now, Homewood Studios will present a gallery show documenting and celebrating this important project. One prevailing theme of the exhibition is issue to show how art can be used to change social behavior, how artists and communities can unite to confront a serious issue and make an impact.
